

CHRISTOPHER VALENCERINA

FRONT-END DEVELOPER

WHO AM I

I am a former personal trainer and real estate agent moving towards a new career in web development and design. I hope to leverage my experience in business, client services, and communication at my workplace and new engagements.

I am constantly advancing my web development skills through online courses, freelancing, and personal projects. Under the guidance of my two mentors, I am cultivating my design skills to compliment my development skills by working with them on their live projects keeping their many critiques in mind.
